Use group dynamics to achieve an environment where students are accepted on a personal level and, at the same time, held accountable for behavior.

This course will take you beyond the one-to-one relationship into a deeper understanding of group dynamics. Learn practical techniques and gain valuable insight into what it takes to make a healthy classroom environment. Foster positive classroom values and leadership in all students to allow them to engage in even the most challenging curriculum. This intriguing and challenging course presents a sophisticated way to view and achieve equity in all schools. Move from a successful manager to an artistic leader!

Topics of study include:

- Group formation - six indicators
- Leaders - identifying, responding, and fostering
- Liaisons - the most powerful member of a group
- Irritability - fairness, bullies, rumors, and ignoring
- Seasons - "pushing the class" and "off the wall" days
- Individuals - stereotyping, scapegoats, and favorites

Intended audience: Anyone who works with students or colleagues in a group setting: classroom teachers, coaches, administrators and managers.
