Learn key strategies for keeping more students in the room more of the time

There are times when students have needs or behaviors that make it tricky to keep them in the general education setting, while keeping them and the rest of the class focused on learning.

This course will allow you to:

- learn about the classroom conditions for supporting students who are most at risk of spending more time out of the classroom and “in the office;”
- increase one’s flexibility;
- manage your own interactions effectively when attempting to engage students;
- identify the conditions to consider for temporary removal;
- increase success on re-entry;
- learn the steps for implementing successful interventions; and,
- understand and adjust when a student is embracing their independent side while utilizing moments when students want to be part of a team (from Michael Grinder’s A Cat in the Doghouse)

Required Prerequisite:

- ENVoY 7 Gems Course

Helpful Prerequisite:

- Whole Group Certification. Even better if you are a Demonstration Teacher
